Besides the new HyperMotion Technology, EA SPORTS Football also introduces a new Player Carrying Technology that makes on-field movement much more responsive and natural. Players can run at full speed while holding the ball with unprecedented responsiveness, and while playing tactical 5 vs 5 matches, they feel like they are carrying the ball. In addition to this technology, the in-game Crowd chants have been improved to feel more realistic. Players respond to chants and the crowd feels more interactive. Now that all of the new features are out of the way, let's take a look at the top 30 players in the world. You'll see why they were chosen, as well as the criteria used to select them. And then, we'll get into the very important subject of FIFA Ultimate Team, and what new players to look out for. Before I get into it, I want to talk about one last thing. This year is the 20th anniversary of FIFA, and we're looking forward to celebrating it with you all on Saturday. This list is sure to raise some eyebrows, and it's always good to start with the favorites. { "_args": [[{ "raw": "readable-stream@~1.1.13", "scope": null, "escapedName": "readable-stream", "name": "readable-stream", "rawSpec": "~1.1.13", "spec": ">=1.1.13 =1.1.13

What's new:

- Authentic Ball Physics

Ball physics rely heavily on player collisions, and in particular on interactions between opposing players and the ball itself. EA has gone one step further by including player collisions with real-world descriptions, so you know for certain when your opponent is trying to clear the ball. Unique to FIFA games before, we've implemented this behaviour as part of all our physics engine layers, so everything in the game plays according to the real rules. A unique Ball Physics Engine has also been developed for the new FIFA game engine and it allows for more realistic forces acting on the ball. This allows the ball to behave more realistically which is believed to improve the quality of the feeling with the ball.

An authentic football world:

Every team is built and customized to have a unique look and feel based on real clubs and real players.

New player models will have more natural, agile movements, more human-like facial features as well as diverse body shapes to allow the player to be more expressive and to display the kind of every day influences that shape their outside and inside lives. The collective AI and coaching systems have been improved to help make each team play more tactically.
